Public Art Trail

Discover Huddersfield offers new ways to experience this amazing Yorkshire town, through guided walks, talks and trails. See Huddersfield at its very best: grand listed buildings and small independent shops; a place for radicals from the Luddites to the Sex Pistols; birthplace of Rugby League; a town rich in creativity, stories, heritage and the odd ghostly encounter.

1 St George's Square

A 1½ times life-size bronze of Harold Wilson, born in Huddersfield, leader of the Labour Party and prime minister of the UK twice. He was noted for his 'man of the people' trademarks of a raincoat and pipe. Sculptor, Ian Walters. 1999. On the parapet of Lion Chambers is a lion, a fibreglass copy of the original, which was in Coade stone. 1853. High on Britannia Buildings is an accessorised Britannia. 1859.

2 Estate Buildings Railway Street

Lots of ornate stonework on the building. Note the little figures making rude gestures in the first-floor string of foliage – there is one above the left-hand shield over the taxi office at 7a. 1872.

3 Market Place

The figures above the entrance of Lloyds TSB are said to have been carved in situ, 1912. The later wooden doors have views of four well-known Huddersfield buildings. Sir John Ramsden erected a market cross, soon after 1671 when he obtained a Royal Charter to hold a weekly market in Huddersfield. It's a stone column with a four-sided cap and above that a stone finial orb showing monarchical supremacy. The carvings show shields or coats of arms that illustrate Sir John's antecedents.

4 Kirkgate, Waverly and Somerset Buildings on Kirkgate, Church Street and Byram Street

Ornate chimneys, elaborate dormer windows and swags are of interest at roof level. There are also highly decorated doorways and carved heads. Sculptor, Ceccardo Fucigna, circa 1883.

5 Boy & Barrel Beast Market

Pub sign is an outsized wooden figure on the roof – the lantern works.

6 The Sun Inn (Now Herbert's and Cafe 36) Cross Church Street

The gables at roof height are ornate with suns rising and setting. Below is a George IV 1829 coin.

7 Queensgate Market Queensgate

The nine relief panels in many brown tones on the market make up Articulation in Movement, the world's largest ceramic sculpture. The panels show abstractions of the building's dramatic roof shells above and soft organic curves of the market's produce. While climbing the steps to the right you pass through a bigger panel. Sculptor, Fritz Steller. 1969.

8 Huddersfield Library and Art Gallery Princess Alexandra Walk

The stone figures by the steps are called Youth Awaiting Inspiration, a boy symbolising literature and a girl, art. Sculptor, James Woodford. 1939.

9 Huddersfield Town Hall Princess Street

The façade has key stones featuring busts of Matthew Hale, Friedrich Handel, William Hogarth, Isaac Newton, William Shakespeare and James Watt. Can you identify them? Each has the tools of his trade portrayed. Sculptor, Thomas Stocks. 1881.

10 BetFred and Max Photos

Mosaic of Development of the Woollen Industry from a cottage craft to the beginning of the industrial revolution. Designer, Harold Blackburn. Mosaicist, Professor Lavagno. 1967.

11 Prudential Assurance Corner of New Street & Ramsden Street

Prudentia, symbol of Prudence on New Street elevation. Made of terracotta, she holds a serpent and a book suggesting wisdom. Sculptor, Birnie Rhind. 1898.

12 Junction of New Street with Buxton Way and Princess Street

Four Cousins, Princess Street Mosaic: Facets of the Local Scene Designer, Mural Consultants. 1967.

Buxton House, Buxton Way
Mosaic: Systematic Sequence in Line and Shade. Artist, Richard Fletcher. 1969.

13 Former Cooperative Building Princess Street and New Street

The buildings above Wilkinson have four date stones with architectural carving. The finest is the soffit of the oriel window below the copper dome showing wheat with the motto LABOUR AND WAIT. Under the clock tower is the motto UNITY IS STRENGTH. On the corner with Queensgate is a pair of lions as flag pole bearers. 1846, 1886, 1893, 1904 & 1926.

Here New Street ends. The view beyond was described by James Morris in his 1963 Road to Huddersfield and in 1965 was the subject of LS Lowry's only painting of the town; Huddersfield. Both works are in Huddersfield Library and Art Gallery.
